Opportunities to do Good

Book of Job

The book of Job examines one of life's most perplexing questions: why God allows his people to suffer. It introduces a pious man of God named Job, who lived perhaps four thousand years ago. In a sudden series of catastrophes, Job loses his family, fame, fortune, and fitness. For more than thirty chapters he searches his soul and debates his best friends to find a reason for his misfortune. After exhausting the conventional wisdom of his counselors, Job is confronted by God himself, and his demanding why melts into humble worship.

Baking Supplies

We are collecting baking supplies for Haven House and others. With the holidays coming up many are struggling to do those little extra things like baking cookies, etc. Haven House is wanting to have a bake sale to make money for the holidays. They cannot sell their items but they can ask for donations. If you would like to participate, please bring your items to the fellowship room by November 6th. This can include flour, sugar (brown, powdered or white), oatmeal, peanut butter, oleo, shortening, nuts, chocolate chips, raisins, etc.
